JUDGE PARKER FOR THE TICKET

Judge Alton B. Parker of New York and other delegates at large and members of the New York delegation are leaving tonight for the east. Judge Parker was the central figure of groups in the hotel lobby today, bidding him goodby and congratulating him on the harmony and unanimity with which the platform was reported to the convention, despite the sharp differences that had developed between the conservative and radical elements. Judge Parktive and radical elements. Judge Parker showed some dissent from the exuberance of these congratulations, and with much frankness said:

within their borders, or any committal of our party to the dangerous policy of the Roosevelt administration of a supreme and all enveloping authority in the federal government at Washington. I felt that I owed it to my party and my convictions to make this fight against any attack on state home rule, and having made it, I am content with the results."

had attended the convention. It also gave me the point of view of those having honest differences of opinion with me on question of principle. While some of the contentions urged by part some of the contentions urged by part of my associates were contrary to those of my education and belief, yet I could not but feel that they were as sincere and honest in their convictions as I in man taken up informally.
